The paths lie mainly on the Vela mountain mass, the 1171 m peak that towers above the coastal city of Lezhë. A predominantly Mediterranean climate, the area is home to a wide variety of flora and fauna. Walking through the trails of Rubik area you can enjoy the panoramic view, history, religion aspect, cultural etc. Katund i Vjetër has become the center for eco-tourism in the region, with many hotels and restaurants featuring local ingredients. Walking on the village offers panoramic views and experience historic, cultural, and religious. The area is particularly beautiful in the Autumn, where the villages of Rreja e Velës and Katund i Vjetër sprout with chestnuts. Medical herbs are found on high altitude. The mountain itself, Vela, is a limestone peak with a beautiful view of the sea. On the first Saturday of June, there is an annual pilgrimage to Lady of Vela, a Catholic shrine located on the peak of the mountain. Hundreds of worshipers ascend the steep rock face to pay homage to the shrine, located in the most serene location.

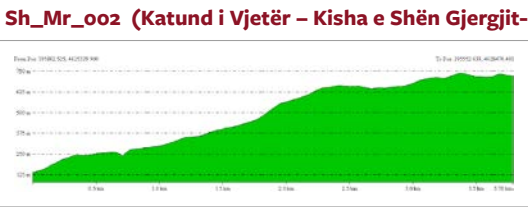

The houses in the villages are mainly of the traditional “kulla” type, which are distinguished by their authentic architecture and stone carvings with pagan, religious and national symbols, such as the Albanian two-headed eagle, or the Christian cross.
